

Job Description

Associate Project Manager: If you are looking to build a career in market research project management and client service, and have a passion for excellence and learning, this may be the educational and challenging entry-level position you're hoping to find.

We are looking for a motivated candidate with an interest in the market research field and background in the social sciences or business. The ideal candidate is looking to learn and leverage a wide range of market research and project management skills for clients across a number of industries and facing a variety of strategic and business challenges. Working closely with designated cross-functional account teams, our Associate Project Managers serve essential roles helping keep projects on time and on budget, while assuring the high quality and accuracy of our surveys and reports.

Essential qualifications include a Bachelor's Degree, dedicated attention to details, strong verbal and written communications skills, comfort with numbers and statistics, and a commitment to high professional standards and ethics.

If you meet these requirements and are looking for a collaborative environment that promotes professional growth, please email us at jgreen@cmiresearch.com. No phone calls please.

We're anxious to hear from you!
