

Job Description

Project Manager: If you have solid market research and project management experience, and a passion for excellence and learning, this may be the exciting and challenging position you're hoping to find.

We are looking for an experienced consultative researcher who thrives on making clients successful by providing creative, information-based solutions to their marketing problems, questions, and issues. Our ideal Project Manager is an excellent communicator, a talented researcher, and an organized, detail-oriented project manager with high professional standards and ethics. In addition to managing the many details that each project requires, Project Managers at CMI must be skilled at turning quantitative research results into solid recommendations to answer clients' strategic and marketing questions.

Essential qualifications include minimum of seven years experience in market research project management and client service, thorough knowledge of quantitative research methods, exceptional written and verbal communication skills, demonstrated experience managing budgets and timelines, and creative and critical thinking. A Bachelor's Degree is required; a MS in Marketing Research, Marketing, Business Administration or related field is preferred.

If you meet these requirements and are looking for a collaborative environment that promotes professional growth, please email us at jgreen@cmiresearch.com. No phone calls please.

We're anxious to hear from you!
